

TURN OVER CITY JUNE 19 TO CONFEDERATE HEROES

Practically Every Organization Here Planning Some Sort of Welcome.

Practically every organization and club in the city has notified General J. Lane Stern, general chairman of the reunion committee, of their purpose to extend some particular welcome to the Confederate veterans when they gather here on June 19 for their thirty-second annual reunion. Indeed, information reaching General Stern from many sources guarantees that the old graycoats will be received in royal fashion.

the city will be turned over to them. Nearly 5,000 strong, it is expected, will the Old South's heroes descend upon Richmond, their former capital city, and every one who comes may anticipate a hospitality which has seldom been accorded by a whole city to so large an assemblage.

Clubs to Keep "Open House."
The Westmoreland and Commonwealth Clubs will keep "open house" throughout the days of the reunion. Here they may come and go as they please, they may partake of buffet lunches which will be served with the compliments of the clubs to all accredited veterans. The Jefferson Club will pursue the same course, and the Elks' Home will also be ready at all times to receive and entertain the veterans.

The Young Men's Christian Association Central Building is also among those prepared to receive and accommodate the veterans, while the Kiwanis Club has indicated its desire of rendering any service which will help make the stay of the Confederates more enjoyable. Other organizations have expressed to General Stern their desire to follow the same course, all of which will be in addition to the regular program arranged for the reunion.

"The good people of Richmond must surely realize," said Gen. Stern, "that this is the last of the big Confederate reunions which can possibly be held in this city. Therefore, I believe that every man, woman and child will do everything within their power to assure our visitors a happy time. In fact, I have little or no doubt on this point, as hundreds of individuals, both men and women, have indicated to me their desire to do something for the old fellows."

"A comfortable seat, palmleaf fan and a glass of cool water is more often appreciated by the veteran than anything else," said General Stern, "and I hope our citizens will bear this in mind. Then again, a cheery word of greeting on the street will go a long way toward making the veterans feel 'at home.'"

Also, General Stern continued, the motorists of our city can render a truly great service by picking up the old men and carrying them to their destination. The old fellows are pretty feeble, and every step which they are saved will add to their physical comfort.

It is estimated that between 40,000 and 50,000 visitors, from Maryland to Texas, will be here for the reunion. Some of the local hotels have already closed their reservations books, and the committee on matters and information is now engaged in the enormous task of tabulating accommodations which are available in boarding houses and private homes.

Probably 5,000 Here.
That the veterans present for the reunion will not exceed 5,000 in number seems to be settled, but the number of the visitors will be made up from members of the veterans' families accompanying them, sons of Confederate Veterans,

Daughters of the Confederacy, members of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, sponsors and maids and matrons of honor.

General W. H. Freeman, chairman of the program committee, has practically finished his task of providing for all meetings and exercises of the reunion, which starts officially on June 19, on which date most of the visitors coming for the event are expected to be within the city's gates.

Upon reaching the city, every veteran will be met at the stations and required to register, after which an official reunion badge will be issued. Those who have not made reservations in advance will be promptly assigned to quarters. A large mess-hall will be maintained at one of the local armories during the three days of the reunion, where dinner and supper will be served each day for the exclusive benefit of the veterans. This feature will be tendered the old soldiers by the city of Richmond and Commonwealth of Virginia.
